

Golf Strangest Rounds: Unbelievable but True Stories from the Links

Golf is a game of skill and precision, but it can also be a game of luck. Sometimes, the ball just seems to bounce the right way, or the wind carries it to the perfect spot. And sometimes, things happen that defy all logic.

Golf Strangest Rounds is a collection of unbelievable but true stories from the world of golf. From a man who hit a hole-in-one with a broken club to a woman who scored a condor, these stories are sure to amaze and entertain any golf fan.

The Hole-in-One with a Broken Club

In 1998, a man named Mike Austin was playing a round of golf at a course in California. On the 16th hole, he hit his tee shot with a broken club. The ball soared through the air and landed on the green, just a few feet from the hole. Austin then calmly sank the putt for a hole-in-one.

Austin's story is a reminder that anything is possible in golf. Even when you have a broken club, you never know when you might hit the shot of a lifetime.

The Condor

In 2002, a woman named Tina Miller was playing a round of golf at a course in Arizona. On the 15th hole, she hit her tee shot over 300 yards. The ball landed on the green and rolled into the hole for a condor, which is a score of four under par.

Miller's condor is one of the rarest shots in golf. Only a handful of people have ever scored a condor, and she is the only woman to ever do it.

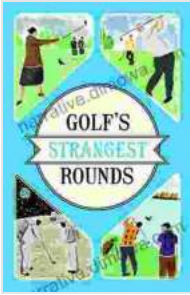

Other Strange Rounds

The stories in Golf Strangest Rounds are not just about hole-in-ones and condors. There are also stories about players who have hit their balls into trees, water hazards, and even other golfers. There are stories about players who have made amazing recoveries and players who have had their rounds ruined by bad luck.

Golf Strangest Rounds is a celebration of the strange and wonderful things that can happen on the golf course. It is a book that will make you laugh, shake your head, and appreciate the game of golf even more.
