Bradley Chalkers is everything Marvin is not. He is tall, athletic, and popular. He seems to take pleasure in tormenting Marvin, both physically and emotionally. Marvin is hurt and confused by Bradley's behavior. He doesn't understand why Bradley is picking on him, and he doesn't know what to do to make it stop.

As the bullying continues, Marvin's self-esteem plummets. He starts to avoid school and spends more and more time alone. He is afraid to tell his parents or teachers what is happening, because he doesn't want to seem like a tattletale. Marvin feels like he is all alone in the world.

One day, Marvin's luck changes when he meets Mrs. North, a kind and compassionate teacher who takes an interest in him. Mrs. North helps Marvin to understand that he is not alone and that there are people who care about him. She encourages him to stand up to Bradley and to fight for what is right.

With Mrs. North's support, Marvin slowly begins to regain his confidence. He starts to speak up for himself and to stand up to Bradley. He learns that he is stronger than he thought he was and that he can overcome anything if he believes in himself.

In the end, Marvin Redpost triumphs over adversity. He learns that bullying is never okay and that it is important to stand up for what you believe in. He also learns that there are people who care about him and that he is not alone.
