BUSINESS DEVELOPMENTS

OneWeb Satellites, a joint venture between OneWeb, a satellite-based internet provider, and Airbus Defense and Space, has announced plans to build a new 100,000 sq. ft. manufacturing building in Exploration Park in North Brevard, the area located immediately outside NASA's secured Kennedy Space Center complex. The project is expected to cost more than $85 million in construction and equipment acquisition, including state-of-the-art robotics, inspection methods, testing equipment, and automated data acquisition systems used in the assembly, integration, and testing of spacecraft. The project, which is being assisted with financial incentives from the State of Florida, Space Florida, and the North Brevard Economic Development Zone (NBEDZ), is expected to create 250 new jobs for the area, with an average annual wage of $69,000 per job.

OneWeb Satellites will use its new North Brevard factory to build platforms, equipment, and satellites for government and commercial customers worldwide. Once completed, the facility will be able to deliver production of more than 25 new satellites per week, greatly increasing the production time for satellite manufacturing and assembly. One of the company's first orders will be the production of 900 communication satellites for its parent company, OneWeb, with an initial delivery scheduled for 2017. For more information on the company, visit www.OneWeb.world.

North American Surveillance Systems (NASS), a manufacturing and engineering design firm, recently won a U.S. Air Force contract valued at $39 million for the delivery of intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance systems for use in small military aircraft. According to the U.S. Defense Department, the contract will involve the making of modifications to aircraft such as the Cessna 208 Caravan model for military sales to the countries of Chad, Cameroon, Niger, and the Philippines. The contract will also involve the provision by the company of training and field service support. The project is expected to create 10 new jobs.

NASS currently employs more than 25 people at its Titusville facility in the Space Coast Regional Airport. The company, which built a new 12,000 sq. ft. hangar facility in 2014, was recruited to the area in 2013 by the Titusville-Cocoa Airport Authority, the City of Titusville and its economic development team, and the EDC of Florida's Space Coast; the project also received approval for financial assistance from
